Worksheet-2

Read the following story and underline the proper nouns.

It was a lovely summer day, and Jack was getting ready to go to school. He picked up a pair of socks from a pile of clean clothes.

“These are not my socks. They are red!” said Jack.

“They are not mine,” said Mr. John, his father. “You can take them.”

Just then, Jack’s little sister Anna ran down the stairs and said, “I have a play today remember. I am playing Little Red Riding Hood. I told you, right? But I can’t find my socks.”

“So they were yours?”

Jack tossed them to his sister.

“These are not my socks. They are red!” said Jack.

“They are not mine,” said Mr. John, his father, as he got ready to go to Lakeshore, the hospital where he worked as a doctor. “You can take them.”

Just then, Jack’s little sister Anna ran down the stairs and said, “I have a play today, remember? I am playing Little Red Riding Hood. I told you right? But I can’t find my socks.”

“So they were yours?”
