Once, there was a dog named Patches. He had a lovely collar around its neck. One day, he got a very juicy bone. Patches was very happy.

On the way back to its kennel, Patches came to a river. As he was trotting on the bridge to cross the river, he looked down at the water. To his amazement, he saw another dog like him, with a juicy bone in its mouth!

Patches immediately wanted to get the bone that the other dog had. He thought he would scare the other dog by barking loudly. He opened his mouth to bark, and.....there! The bone dropped to the river.

Brownie realised that the other dog had been just his reflection. He felt very foolish, and regretted being greedy.
